$44,000 Subscribed Up To Wednesday Evening

Magistrate Arthur Beaumont Addressed Torch of Victory Program; Urged Citizens to Subscribe to Victory Loan 1941

Hall Crowded to Capacity; Citizens' Band and United Church Choir in Attendance; Many Sign Scroll.

Local citizens filled the community hall to capacity on Sunday evening to hear the Torch of Victory program by the Ottawa committee and arranged under the personal supervision of a local committee. The hall was beautifully decorated with flags, emblems, Victory bond campaign banners and in the background the large flag flying the Torch of Victory. On the floor of the hall was a table on which rested the Torch of Victory scroll. A candle burned at both sides of the scroll. Two soldiers were on guard beside the scroll.

In his opening remarks chairman A. F. Short stated the present conflict was drawing ever nearer and that more and more calls were being made on the Canadian people, which had to be met. Following his remarks selections were played by the band and selections sung by St. Paul's United church choir, under the direction of Dr. C. Rose. Chairman Short referred to President Roosevelt's speech last week and in tribute to the president and the citizens of the United States for their help in the present conflict he had the band play the American national anthem.

The prayer for victory was read by the Rev. J. R. Hague. Brigadier General J. S. Stewart, of Lethbridge, had been scheduled to address the meeting but owing to pressure of business in the city had been unable to attend. In his place Chairman Short introduced Magistrate Arthur Beaumont, of Lethbridge.

Mr. Beaumont is a Great War No. 1 veteran and told his audience that the Dominion government was not asking for charity but that each and everyone to invest their savings as a patriotic duty, and get their investment back in due course with interest.

War could not be fought without money and we at home are asked to find the money. This was not a time to stand back and criticize the federal government—it was the time to support it. He told of his war experiences in 1914-15 when soldiers were given a limited supply of ammunition and told not to use it until the enemy was actually approaching them.

There was no more time left to consider the question of "how much can I give?" There had already been eighteen months to consider the question. It was a matter of helping now with money to buy equipment.

The evacuation of Dunkirk had shown the world that the bravest soldiers in the world were not able to stand up to the modern mechanized army.

We are producing more today than at this time last year, but are still behind the required amount to wage war on an equal basis with the enemy. Britain is fighting with her back to the wall and it is up to Canadians to put up the money to equip our soldiers. The British Empire will never go under providing we do our share.

Those who can't go—subscribe! Those who can go—go!

The German Empire will be smashed into the dirt and the British Empire will survive throughout civilization if we do our part.

H. C. McBurney, unit organizer, thanked Speaker Beaumont addressing the meeting. He asked all Coleman citizens to support the war loan and took time out to "spike" rumors that canvassers were being paid fat commissions. "They will be lucky if they get sufficient commission to buy a couple of good cigars," remarked Mr. McBurney.

WORDS OF INSPIRATION

A Thought A Day For A People At War

"British influence, prestige, valiance and chivalry have spread to every corner of the world, and the glorious stand the mother country is making today finds a responsive chord in the heart of every man, woman and child who loves freedom."—Dr. H. A. Tanner, Superintendent of Schools, Chatham, Ontario.

Citizens Asked to Decorate Homes

Premier Aberhart Asks Council To Take Lead; Merchants Asked to Decorate Stores.

Mayor Antrobus, along with other Alberta mayors, has received a communication from Premier Aberhart asking him to do all in his power to have citizens and merchants decorate their homes and stores as part of the Victory Bond drive.

The letter reads: "I have been asked by the chairman of the committee in charge to invite your assistance officially by your encouragement and direction of the decoration of the homes, business places, and public buildings in your district with flags and bunting during the time of the drive June 2 to June 24. This will give everyone a chance to share in the drive in a community way, as well as to recognize the importance of buying Victory loan bonds."

"I need hardly urge you to lend support in any other way you deem advisable. I most heartily commend this request to your attention."

As a result of this letter the mayor and councillors are urging upon all citizens to fly flags at their homes. On Main street some merchants have had planes, bulldozers, flags, etc. painted on their windows and this all helps in the Victory drive. Merchants who have not yet unrolled their flag are asked to do so in the name of patriotism.

HAZUKA GROCERY STORE QUITTING BUSINESS

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hazuka, proprietors of Hazuka's Grocery store, decided this week to go out of business and are now selling their stock at reduced prices.

They have been in business in east Coleman during the past four years and had built-up a well stocked store which was well patronized by east Coleman residents.

Hazuka's Grocery will again be the only grocery and meat store in east Coleman.

George LeRoy Passed Away On Sunday

Funeral At Penitentiary, B. C., On Thursday

Death came to George W. R. LeRoy on Sunday afternoon, June 1, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Halliwell, Sixth street, after several months illness. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herb A. LeRoy, of Penitentiary, B. C., and the body was forwarded there on Tuesday for burial on Thursday, June 6.

He was 30 years of age, having been born in Grand Forks, B. C., on April 4, 1911. Most of his life was spent in British Columbia, he having lived at Michel, where his father was for some years manager of Trites Wood Limited, and Vancouver and Penitentiary.

Prior to his illness he was with his father in the Penitentiary Hardware Co. Late last year he became incapacitated from work, spending three months in Penitentiary hospital. On April 2 he was brought to Coleman in the hope that a change might benefit him, but despite every effort to return him to health, he passed peacefully away at 3 p.m. on Sunday.

In April 1932 he was married to Margaret Lillian Halliwell, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Halliwell. There were no children.

The body was forwarded to Penitentiary on Train 11 on Tuesday morning.

He was a member of the Gyr Club of Penitentiary.

Besides his parents in Penitentiary, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. William C. Laurie, wife of C.P.R. Agent Laurie at Michel, and a younger brother, Herb, of Penitentiary. Mrs. E. K. Stewart of Fernie is an aunt of deceased, and with Mrs. George LeRoy left on Monday for Penitentiary. Mrs. Halliwell left on Train 11 for Penitentiary to attend the funeral.

Polish Youths Asked to Enlist

Three Local Polish Men Have Joined Canadian Army; Twenty Youths Still Available for Service.

A call to arms for all Polish men in Western Canada, between the ages of 18 and 32, has gone out from the Consulate of Poland for Western Canada in Winnipeg, according to a letter received from Dr. J. Szygowski, Consul of Poland, today.

The men are requested to register immediately at the Consulate for voluntary enlistment in the Polish armed units now being formed in Canada. Immediately after registration the men found fit for service will be sent to the Polish Military Camp at Windsor, Ontario.

Polish citizens over the age of 32 and up to the age of 40 are also requested to register at the consulate; those willing to volunteer will be called as soon as the contingent of men between 18 and 32 is enlisted.

At the present time only two of Coleman's Polish youth, John and Alex Kanik, have enlisted, and both of them in the Canadian Army. Alex Kanik joined up in the first month of the war and for many months has been with Canada's forces in Britain.

According to Mike Opulski, secretary of the local Polish society, at least twenty youths are eligible in Coleman between the 18 to 32 year class.

Quota of $53,000 Expected to be Exceeded Friday; Pincher Creek-Crows Nest Constituency First in Dominion to Exceed Quota

Organizer Ken Ringland Received Wire of Congratulations From Provincial Headquarters On Magnificent Achievement; Will Now Try And Double Constituency Quota of $153,000

A grand total of $44,000 had been subscribed locally to the Victory Loan 1941 after the close of three days canvass. This leaves only $9,000 short of the $53,000 quota set for Coleman and this may be subscribed by day.

Pincher Creek-Crows Nest constituency, of which Coleman is a unit, was the first constituency in the Dominion to exceed its quota. The quota was $153,000 and after two days' canvass $201,000 had been subscribed. So great has been the response that organizer Ken Ringland and his committees have set themselves the task of trying to double the quota.

Following is a wire of congratulations received by Mr. Ringland from provincial headquarters officials:

"Heartiest congratulations to division of Pincher Creek-Crows Nest and to you and committee members on being the first division to reach and exceed general canvass objective. Particulars have been given publicity department with strong request this be given Dominion publicity.—C. R. Tanner, Chairman Organization and Distribution committee."

Satisfaction was expressed by local officials on Tuesday evening when it became known that total subscriptions in the Victory Loan campaign had reached $36,150, of the required $53,000 quota. $21,000 was subscribed the first day. While there are a few fairly large subscriptions in the $36,150, the bulk is made up of the $50 to $500 denominations. The heavy subscriptions are expected to come in later in the campaign.

Canvassers are out each evening and are being cordially received by the public. Only on rare occasions are they kept on the doorstep in their efforts to sell the bonds.

A few canvassers, in relating their experiences during the week's canvass, remarked that the public as a whole were most anxious to support the campaign. A number of persons have frankly admitted being in the red but have purchased a bond by having certain amounts deducted from their pay envelope each pay-day. Persons such as these have to be commended for their patriotic effort.

Blairmore is flying high, wide and handsome with several heavy subscriptions being brought in on the first day's canvass. Three cheques totalling $80,000, Blairmore's quota was $40,000. A $5,000 cheque was promised to the Blairmore unit Tuesday evening which would further swell the huge amount.

Pincher Creek and Turner Valley were waiting on the opening gun Monday morning to announce to the Dominion that they had over-subscribed their quota. The latter town received a wire of congratulation from Prime Minister Mackenzie King for its grand showing.

Coleman citizens are invited to visit headquarters and watch the thermometer climb closer and closer to the local objective and continue on till $100,000 has been reached. In a town of this size it can be reached if everyone will give his support.

Pucksters Win Ball Opener Against Kimberley

Morlimane Pitched Fine Ball For Pucksters; Kimberley Import Seven Ball Players But Fail to Hold Locals.

Pucksters, Alberta Intermediate ball champions for the past two years, served notice on the rest of the league clubs that they (Pucksters) are the team to be beaten this year should any other team have ambitions towards the C.N.P. baseball championship.

Travelling to Kimberley on Sunday Pucksters played air-tight ball to edge out the Kimberley team 2-1. The second scheduled game was postponed owing to the funeral of one of the town's leading citizens.

Morlimane, a Bellevue youth, pitched for Pucksters and struck out ten men and allowed four hits. According to manager Angelo Gentile, the Kimberley team has imported seven players from the States and other points. Humble the pitcher, is from the States and was given four weeks training by Chicago Cubs. Pucksters were fortunate in getting their hits off him early in the game before he had time to warm up to his task.

For the first time in the history of the Salvation Army, because of enemy bombing, "101" in the heart of London, England, is no more. "101" to Salvation Army officers throughout the world meant International Headquarters. Another S.A. building, British National headquarters, located across the street from "101" was also totally wrecked by a bomb.

Captain Watson of the Salvation Army returned to Coleman after spending a week at Calgary.

Many Attend Display of Shop Work And Home Economic Goods

Coleman high school students and teachers of the shop work and Home Economics classes have been forced to extend their scheduled display of goods from two displays on Wednesday to another display this afternoon. This has been caused by the unexpected number who have shown such an interest in the students' work.

On display are metal work, lamps, tables, desks, dresses, aprons, etc. A number of the girls are modelling the dresses.

Tea is being served to all those patronizing the displays.

Nine Local Men Enlisted Last Friday

Majority to Work in Trade Schools; Left for Calgary On Tuesday.

Major F. H. Jenkins, of the 15th Alberta Light Horse, was successful last Friday in enlisting nine local men, the majority of whom will be placed in trade schools.

Those enlisted were the three Hirst brothers, William, Fred and Jesse, James Lloyd, Leslie Griffiths, L. M. Vasek, Richard Fisher, Jasper Jones, Tom Sudworth. The men left for Calgary on Tuesday morning's bus.

Menzies has caused a number of children to be confined to their homes.

British Troops Are Evacuated From Crete After Fierce Fighting

London.—Britain announced withdrawal of her forces from Crete as the savage German offensive, without regard for losses in men and material, wrote a bloody but successful finish to history's first large-scale air-borne invasion.

The war office announced that some 15,000 British troops have been evacuated from Crete to Egypt and that British losses have been severe.

It issued this communique: "After 12 days of what has undoubtedly been the fiercest fighting in this war it was decided to withdraw our forces from Crete.

"Although the losses we inflicted on the enemy's troops and aircraft have been enormous it became clear that our naval and military forces could not be expected to operate indefinitely in and near Crete without more air support than could be provided from our bases in Africa.

"Some 15,000 of our troops have been withdrawn to Egypt but it must be admitted that our losses have been severe."

Facing still another Dunkirk with characteristic stolidness, Britons had the grim satisfaction that their troops in the 12-day stand under relentless dive bombing against which they did not have the necessary air support, made possible the cleaning up of the Iraq revolt before the arrival of German aid, and had given Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell time to re-form his Middle East forces to defend Egypt.

Authoritative sources in admitting the loss of Crete in this, the fourth British withdrawal of the war, was serious, said the blow to British prestige in the middle east would have been greater if the Germans had been able to consolidate a hold on Iraq, gateway to the riches of the east.

Crete's loss complicates the Mediterranean naval picture. Informed quarters conceded it likely would hamper tremendously the fleet's three-fold task of keeping the Mediterranean open to British shipping, preventing Axis supplies from reaching North Africa and forestalling German occupation of French-mandated Syria.

With only 200 miles of sea between Crete and Libya, German bombers may compel the British fleet to rely entirely upon submarines and planes to keep heavy reinforcements of tanks and supplies from reaching the Axis forces in North Africa.

Now that Crete's Suda Bay is lost, Britain is left with four scattered naval bases in the Mediterranean, of which Gibraltar is far removed from the scene of recent operations.

The other three bases, Malta, Cyprus and Alexandria, are exposed to Axis bombers. Malta is a scant 60 miles from plane bases on Sicily; Alexandria is 400 miles from Crete.

and Cyprus is inside a 300-mile range from Italian-owned Rhodes.

There is a question whether surface ships always will find shelter in the Malta base which they used in pre-war days for refueling and repairs.

The battle of Crete was "a vast rearguard action" into which Britain was forced by the German preponderance of aircraft and mechanized troops, authorities here said.

The Crete diversion, it was pointed out, enabled Britain to spend the intervening time on these jobs in:

1. Wiping out the Iraq trouble.

2. Winding up the Ethiopian campaign.

3. Preparations to meet the Axis threat to Suez from Libya.

4. Resting, reorganizing and re-equipping Gen. Wavell's forces after the battle of Greece.

Ample Food Supplies

No Change In Britain During The Last Twelve Months

London.—Lord Woolton, minister of food, told the house of lords that Britain, after 20 months of war, is as strong as a position regarding food supplies as 12 months ago.

He announced he would try an "experiment" shortly in rationing eggs. He gave no details.

The minister added he hoped he never would have to ration bread but believed he would ration milk. Complete control of fish prices will soon be announced, he said.

Vichy.—The bread ration was increased for the month of June while other commodities, with the exception of meat, remained practically the same as for May.

An announcement restoring the 14 per cent. cut in effect the past three months attributed the restoration to the accelerated passage of wheat between the occupied and unoccupied zones, due to transportation facilities made available by the German occupation authorities.

Under German Orders

Fifty-Nine Canadian Women Reported Interned In Occupied

Ottawa.—Names of 59 Canadian women reported to be interned in occupied France were made public by the department of external affairs.

The list brings to 116 the number of Canadian women who have been reported interned in that section of France.

"Apparently these women have been interned in pursuance of an order from the German general staff that Canadians in occupied France, regardless of age or sex should be taken into custody," the department's statement said.

Bacon Price Up

Increase Of 75 Cents A Hundredweight Is Announced

Ottawa.—An increase of 75 cents a hundredweight in the price payable for bacon at Canadian sea-board was announced by the bacon board.

The increase raised the price of grade A, No. 1 sizable Wiltshire sides to $17.85 a hundredweight.

"This constitutes an increase of 75 cents per hundredweight on the price of bacon for all grades, selections and weights of Wiltshires and export cuts and is applicable to all bacon put into cure for export from hogs purchased on or after Monday, June 2," the board said.

The price increase followed by less than a month a previous increase of $1 a hundredweight in the price the bacon board paid to packers for bacon destined for Britain.

Their earlier increase, announced May 1, was borne by the United Kingdom, but at that time it was said officially that any further upward revision of prices would be paid by Canada.

Under the existing agreement with the United Kingdom, reached last autumn, Canada agreed to provide roughly 425,000 pounds of pork products to Britain within a year. Subsequently Britain has indicated she will take even more.

Ship Losses Heavy

Britain Taking Toll Of Axis Boats Trying To Run Blockade

London.—Five hundred and sixty-one Axis ships totalling 2,873,000 tons have been sunk, captured or scuttled since the war began up to the middle of May, it was learned officially.

The Germans lost 345 ships totalling 1,773,000 tons, of which 61 were captured or seized and 285 sunk or scuttled.

The Italians lost 215 ships totalling 1,100,000 tons of which 39 were captured or seized and 176 sunk or scuttled.

An additional 38 ships of other countries totalling 67,000 tons which had been sailing on behalf of Germany "have been disposed of by one means or another," it was stated.

The sinkings are continuing, officials said, indicating that the Axis ships are still trying to run the blockade.

Served On The Hood

Casualty List Includes Three Canadians Who Are Believed Lost

Ottawa.—Three officers of the Royal Canadian Navy are missing and believed killed in action with H.M.S. Hood, sunk off Greenland May 24, the Royal Canadian Navy said in a casualty list.

A footnote to the list said no other Canadians have been reported to date as serving on the Hood.

The list containing the three names brought the total number reported dead and missing by the Royal Canadian Navy since war began at 360.

Employ Jews

Pithiviers, Occupied France.—About 4,000 foreign Jews interned near here and Orleans will be employed on public work projects under a new government program. The Jews, taken into custody May 14, were installed in French army barracks. French mobile guards and French officers supervise the camp.

COMMANDED BRITISH

Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, who commanded the British troops in Greece. Gen. Wilson became general officer commanding the British forces in Egypt in 1939, and directed operations which carried the British troops to Benghazi. He was then appointed G.O.-in-chief of British troops in Cyrenaica, and became military governor of that province.

U.S. Wheat Quota

Canada Holds A Favored Position In New Ruling

Washington.—A presidential proclamation imposed quotas on imports of wheat and wheat flour from 30 countries.

The total quota for wheat imports, for consumption in any period of 12 months, will be 500,000 bushels, of which Canada may send in 795,000. The total for wheat flour is 4,000,000 pounds, with Canada allotted 3,815,000 pounds.

Most of the major countries are allotted quotas either for wheat or flour, including Germany, Italy, Japan and France. There are quotas also for some of the countries overrun by Germany, including Belgium, Rumania, Norway, Yugoslavia, Poland, Greece and Hungary.

It was pointed out in agricultural circles that since domestic prices through crop loans will be so far above world prices, conceivably foreign wheat could be shipped here duty paid and still undersell American wheat, were not restrictions applied.

Power May Be Extended

Further Legislation Planned For Conciliation Boards In Labor Disputes

Ottawa.—Labor Minister McLarty plans to bring in further legislation this session of parliament respecting boards of conciliation in labor disputes, it was learned. The legislation according to reports will give the minister greater power in the choice of representatives to sit on conciliation boards.

The parties to a labor dispute under the new legislation will still be free to accept or reject the findings of the boards it is understood.

Shot Without Trial

London. The Polish Telegraphic agency reported the German authorities in occupied Poland have shot without trial 14 Poles accused of aiding and abetting, in an attack on a German police officer. The officer had been investigating a report of illegal cattle slaughter on a farm at Wishtino, near Lodz.

Group Of Trainees Arrive From Britain For U. S. Air Schools

Ottawa. Fresh strength for the fighting forces has come to this continent—airmen, sailors and soldiers, and United States-bound girls of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

Guarded by mighty units of the British fleet, they sailed the north Atlantic while the greatest naval battle of the war was fought in those waters—the action which saw the loss of H.M.S. Hood and the avenging destruction of Germany's battleship Bismarck.

In the varied contingent of air, sea and land fighters came the first group of Royal Air Force fledglings who will be trained in the United States under the plan announced at Washington May 29 by the United States war department.

They will be followed at intervals by other flights until 8,000 have been trained in the next year. The instruction course begins June 7.

Most of the blue-clad youths in the first group were destined for service in air crews. They did not know their destination in the United States.

Practically all the airmen were in uniform, but all had been issued with muffs and it was indicated they would doff their uniform before entering the U.S. to conform with the international amenities.

With the U.S.-bound squad came another R.A.F. contingent for the Canadian end of the British Commonwealth air training plan, regular arrivals at these shores now. A number of instructors were included with them.

Top-ranking airmen among the R.A.F. men was Air Commodore Betts. His mission on this continent was not disclosed.

Berecy surrounded, too, the mission of the W.A.A.F. girls. That some were heading for the United States with the other fliers and fliers-to-be, and others were bound for Bermuda was all reporters could learn.

Believed the first group of their organization to come to North America except for scattered "waifs" on leave, they said they were under instructions to say nothing.

"It's hard for a woman not to talk," smiled one, "but there you are."

All the girls were in civilian dress, their trim khaki uniforms discarded for this mission. Revelling in tinted fingerlings, lipstick, rouge and stylish clothes, they looked more like chorus girls on holiday than women engaged in the grim business of war.

Others in the arrivals included the inevitable batch of trans-Atlantic ferry pilots, fleet air arm men come to Canada for training. British army "Tommys" who will man defensive guns on merchant ships in convoys and merchant seamen, some of them fete-zipped residents of the east.

Two high officers of the Royal Navy—Rear Admiral J. W. S. Doring and Rear Admiral Forbes—were aboard. Purpose of their trip was undisclosed.

The passengers reported an uneventful trip, without bother from German air or sea forces.

Sending Warplanes To East

Report Says Germans Reducing Force In Northwestern Europe

London.—The Germans recently have reduced their air forces in northwestern Europe appreciably, sending large numbers of dive bombers and fighter planes through the Balkans to Greece and the Middle East, informed British sources said.

These informants said these movements of German planes involved a flight of about 1,200 miles, as contrasted with the 12,000-mile voyage around the cape of Good Hope by which British planes have to be sent to the Middle East.

It was added that Iraq is one place in the Middle East where it is believed Britain has superiority in the air.

Called For Home Defence

London. New Zealanders of 18 years will be called up for home defence with the New Zealand territorial force, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported quoting an announcement made at Wellington. The age limit for overseas service is 21.

Considering New Plan

Changes In System Of Wheat Delivery Quotas May Be Made

Ottawa.—A different system of wheat delivery quotas may be instituted this year by the wheat board, though final decision will not be made until the probable size of the crop is foreseen.

Last year's system of a flat quota with regular increases applying evenly through the wheat country is likely to be replaced by an initial, small flat quota of not more than five bushels with additional quotas based on proportionate yields. Anything like a small crop generally might easily eliminate the need of any quotas but inquiries are being made to determine whether changes in last year's system are desirable if quotas are needed.

Cousin Of The King Safe

London.—Lord Louis Mountbatten, 40-year-old cousin of the King and commander of the destroyer Kelly, who was feared to have gone down with his ship off Crete, was reported safe in a cable received by Lady Louis Mountbatten.

International Wheat Conference To Be Held In United States

Washington.—An international wheat conference will be called by the United States within the next few weeks, it was announced here by the state department.

Representatives of the four big exporting nations, Canada, Australia, Argentina and the United States, are expected to attend, as well as representatives of Britain, the chief and almost the only free importing nation left in the world.

It was suggested here in agricultural circles that the main purpose of the Washington conference would be to attempt to achieve agreement among the big four exporting nations to limit production.

At the present time, because of war conditions and the German occupation of practically all of Europe, the exporting nations are choked with wheat that cannot be sold. Canada, for instance, held 560,000,000 bushels on May 1 and this same surplus position was true to a greater or less extent, in Australia, Argentina and the United States.

Several times in the past few years attempts have been made to limit production in the exporting nations in order to clear away accumulated surpluses that hung over the market. Agricultural sources here suggested the situation was more acute to-day than ever before and that something might be possible at least.

The United States clamped down quotas for wheat and wheat flour but gave Canada almost all the staff.

Under a presidential decree, the wheat quota for any 12-month period was placed at 800,000 bushels and Canada was allocated 795,000 bushels.

The flour quota was placed at 4,000,000 pounds and Canada's share 3,815,000 pounds.

The disclosure of the proposed conference was made in the release of an exchange of notes between the United States and Canada in connection with the quota action.

In a note to the Canadian government, the United States said:

"In taking the action referred to above, the government of the United States recognized that the wheat problem is, in fact, an international problem and one in which the governments of Canada and the United States have mutual interest.

"It is for this reason that the government of the United States welcomed the recent indication of the Canadian government of its willingness to resume discussions on an international basis of the whole wheat surplus problem.

"The government of the United States accordingly proposes to extend invitations for such discussions in Washington in the near future."

WHERE IRAQI ATTACKED BRITISH BASE

A mechanic of the British Royal Air Force checks a plane at the air base of Habbaniya in Iraq, which was shelled by Iraqi artillery. This air-drome is located 60 miles west of Baghdad.

London. Great Britain has placed her war aims before the world for the first time since calling for the establishment everywhere of President Roosevelt's "four freedoms" and stern military and political terms to prevent Germany from ever again aspiring to the mastery of Europe.

The statement was made by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in an address at Mansion House, residence of the Lord Mayor of London. Eden presented this outline of Britain's war aims:

1. A peace based upon President Roosevelt's ideals of freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want and freedom from fear.

2. Political and military terms designed to place Germany in a position where she never again could challenge world peace or again become "the worst master Europe has yet known."

3. Establishment of social security abroad as well as at home, through co-ordinated efforts of Britain, the dominions, the United States and South America to stabilize currencies, feed starving people, avert fluctuations of employment, prices and markets.

4. Extension of this new "moral order"—as opposed to Adolf Hitler's "new European order" to the Far East once the Sino-Japanese war has been liquidated.

5. British support of the independence of Syria and a unified Arab world.

Eden asserted that Britain would seek achievement of these ideals "in ways which would interfere as little as possible with proper liberty in each country over its own economic fortunes."

"What has Germany to offer on her side?" asked Eden. "Absolutely nothing."

He warned, however, that Britain would impose drastic peace terms upon Germany which he characterized as "the worst master Europe has yet known."

"Five times in the last century," he said, "she has violated the peace. She must never be in a position to play that role again. Our political and military terms of peace will be designed to prevent repetition of Germany's misdeeds."

Making the first authoritative statement of Britain's war aims, Eden declared that these aims constitute a "moral order" in contrast to the "new order" offered by Adolf Hitler.

Eden declared that he counted upon the united support of the British Empire, the United States and South America in the establishment of the post-war era which Britain envisages.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

IN our early years we were taught to believe that the British Empire was invincible. We sung about the Navy, that kept our foes at bay, for in the period up until Great War I undersea craft and airplanes had not been developed to their present efficiency to deal death and destruction. The Crimean War in which Great Britain and France fought against the Russians, who under Czar Nicholas I. attempted to subjugate the whole of southeastern Europe, was fought from 1853 to 1856. That was the last European War in which Britain fought until Great War I. In 1914-18. In 1899-1902 the Boer War in South Africa was fought. It was during the reign of Queen Victoria that Britain experienced its greatest era of colonial expansion, and it required a powerful navy to safeguard the Empire's trade routes. Troops and supplies up until that time could be safely transported to distant possessions with as great a degree of safety as that of a pleasure cruise ship. Britain's navy was supreme, hence the Britisher's confidence that "Britannia Ruled the Waves."

THAT condition no longer exists. The development of the submarine and the aerial bomber has challenged that supremacy to such an extent that Britain has its back to the wall. It still transports troops and munitions over thousands of miles but at a terrible cost. These are facts which are most forcibly impressed on us by the terrific toll which is being taken. The latest debacle of the war in Greece and on the island of Crete is one of a series of disasters which we have experienced because we had relied too much on the Navy instead of heeding the warnings of the might of Germany's titanic war machine which Hitler had built since he became the ruler and dictator of Germany.

SINCE the Great War we had become lulled into a sense of false security, and now we must pay the price. The present war will be decided by the Battle of the Atlantic and the Battle of Britain, for Germany will concentrate its full power by land, sea and air on these objectives. It has swept everything before it in its conquest of the greater part of Europe, and though there may be wishful thinking that revolutions may break out in the subjugated countries, the fact must be faced that so well has treachery and intrigue accomplished its purpose in countries formerly friendly to Britain, including the great republic of France, once our most powerful ally, that no military help can come from those countries. Britain has yet to demonstrate its power to conquer Germany before any help can be expected from the European nations now chafing under the iron heel and slavery of Nazism.

GERMANY knows that the British will fight to the last ditch, and for that reason is using every murderous device in its power to demoralize the non-combatant population to weaken resistance to its final attempt to invade Britain. Only by retaliatory methods of a like nature can Britain bring home to the German people that it too can murder them by indiscriminate bombing of its centres of population. It is a case of licking them or be licked, and though it is a travesty on our supposedly enlightened civilization that such methods are necessary to fight the mad dog of Europe in the person of Hitler, it has got to come to that. Only by far greater superiority in air power will this be accomplished. That is why the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan was conceived and in which we pin our faith that the time will come when Germany will become so war weary that it will collapse as it did in the latter part of 1918, when the Kaiser fled to Holland and a republican form of government was set up. Britain "played cricket" too long with a nation that mistook such an attitude for weakness. No longer can this prevail.

TOO long have we in Canada labored under the delusion that war would never come to us. It is with us, not in the form of bombings, but in the fact that we are sending men and munitions of war in ever increasing volume. We now know the cost of war and the price Britain is paying to keep the British Commonwealth of Nations intact. We must assume our full share of the burden, and pay for the protection we have and are enjoying because of Britain's gallant stand. That is why the present War Loan campaign is organized to raise $600,000,000, the greatest war loan in Canada's history. The response in the first few days of the campaign indicates that Canadians are alive to the danger facing us.

WINSTON Churchill stated last summer: "All France in the power of the enemy, all its arsenals and vast masses of military material converted to the enemy's use; a puppet government set up at Vichy which may at any moment become our foe; the whole western seaboard of Europe, from the North Cape to the Spanish frontier in German hands; all the ports, all the airfields upon this immense front employed against us as potential spring-boards of invasion; the German air power, numerically so far out-stripping ours, has been brought so close to our island that what we used to dread has come to pass, and the hostile bombers not only reach our shores in a few minutes and from many directions but can be escorted by their fighters."

WE can best back up Churchill in his inspiring leadership of the British people by furnishing the tools to secure victory. We must do it today. The end is victory.

Freedom of the Press

The Guarantee of Freedom
This is the closing editorial of a series which was designed to provide our readers with a better understanding of the functions of the press which serves their community. An attempt has been made to deal briefly, simply and adequately with the many phases and relationships between the newspaper and the territory it serves. It is not without purpose that this editorial has been left until the last, because in a sense it sums up what has been said in the previous editorials about the aims, objects, ideals and problems of the community weekly newspaper.

The purpose of this series has been to give a glimpse of the intangible things about a newspaper—the soul if you will. For the newspaper has a soul, and that is what makes it such an important asset in the district it serves. We borrow these words from another writer to explain just why we believe that your newspaper is your guarantee of freedom.

"I am the guarantee of the Canadian way of life—the way of liberty—the way of equal opportunity—the way of free enterprise—the divine way and the true way for national well-being and upward advancement.

Weekly I go into your home—in winter and summer—in spring and fall. I chronicle your birth, your marriage, your death, and the intervening years which mean for sorrow or joy, depression, or exaltation, health or pestilence, poverty or wealth, weakness or strength.

Freeborn am I and true to my heritage. I am not the subservient carrier of propaganda which enabled a Hitler to become the master of Germany, nor am I the complacent press which contributed to the downfall of France. I am a friendly visitor. You'll find me constantly at your right hand week after week. I have character, and even when I hurt you, I know you would not have me spineless.

I provide you with special civic service. I support to the last drop of my ink your charities, your Red Cross drives, your school, your church, and your service organizations. Yes, I assist in the building of community character.

Through advertising I promote your trade, move your commodities, advance your living standards. I am a bit bashful about mentioning these things, but I want you to rest assured that I am your friend.

I am the Canadian home town newspaper, and without me your liberties would vanish."

The UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE PLAN

To the Employer...

Contributions to the Unemployment Insurance Fund become payable as from July 1st, 1941.

Contributions are made by the employer and the employee, and are paid by the purchase of Unemployment Insurance stamps by the employer from the Post Offices.

The employee's contributions are deducted from his wages by the employer.

Stamps will be affixed to a special book, called the Insurance Book, by the employer. The book is the employee's record of contributions, and when he becomes unemployed it forms the record from which insurance benefits may be paid. Full details will be sent to you when you have returned the postcard attached to a form which is now in the mails.

The plan of procedure has been adopted after consultation with employer and employee associations and is one which has been based upon thirty years' experience in Great Britain.

The Dominion Government adds 20% to the combined employee-employer contributions, and in addition, pays the administration costs which include the operation of a National Employment Service for the convenience of employers and employees.

Contributions are payable by all persons while in employment and by their employers, with the exceptions listed in the panel below.

The first duty of every employer will be to REGISTER WITH THE COMMISSION by completing the postcard attached to a form which is now in the mails, and obtaining and issuing insurance books for all his employees. If there is doubt as to whether employees, or any of them, are in your employ, ask for instructions when you return the postal card. If you do not receive a form, ask for instructions when you return the postal card. All employers must complete registration prior to June 14th, 1941.

The Commission feels that it can be assured of the full cooperation of all employers. Nevertheless, attention is drawn to the fact that registration is compulsory and any failure to register is an infraction of the law and is subject to penalties.

WEDDINGS.

TARABULA — KONIOR
Saturday morning in St. Gabriel's church, the ceremony of matrimony was celebrated between Blanche Konior, of North Side, and Frank Tarabula, of Coleman, Alberta. The bride was dressed in a floor-length satin gown with a flowing halo veil, and she looked refreshingly charming. The bridal bouquet was of roses and carnations. At the home of the bride's mother a wedding party was held. The table was laid as only a table can be laid on a farm, with all the trimmings and a large tiered wedding cake, of which all the guests partook. The newlyweds received many lovely wedding gifts from friends and neighbors. A gay time was had by all and best wishes were conveyed to the happy pair. Mr. and Mrs. Tarabula will reside in Coleman, where the groom is employed. —Athabasca Echo.

BAYON GILLESPIE

A wedding of very great interest locally was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Gillespie, Coleman, when Janet, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie, was united in marriage with John Bayon, who at present is chief military cook at the Currie Barracks, Calgary.

The bride, who until recently has been matron of Drumheller hospital, wore a beige coloured gown with tan accessories and a corsage of roses. The matron of honour, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, a sister of the bride, was gowned in soldier's blue. Louis Bayon, a brother, supported the groom. At the wedding service, attended by a large number of relatives and friends, the father gave the bride in marriage while Rev. J. E. Kirk read the marriage lines. Following the service the wedding party sat down to a delicious dinner at which Mr. Harry Gardner proposed the toast to the bride and the groom responded, followed by a few well chosen words of advice to the bride and groom.

An interesting feature of the wedding was the presence of all the daughters and son-in-laws except the daughter and her husband at the coast. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. David Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rogers and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. O. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. D. Navay, Mr. and Mrs. B. Westworth and son, Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. L. Picard of Blairmore, the groom's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bayon and their eldest sister of Calgary, Mr. J. Balloch and Mr. Davis.

The many friends of the bride and groom extend best wishes to the happy couple who will take up residence in Calgary.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS NOW BUSY

The federal census started on Monday, June 2, and thousands of men and women are now busy throughout the Dominion finding out for the government just how great the population has grown during the past ten years.

Enumerators for Coleman are: Coleman, West, Norman A. McAlay; Coleman, East, B. P. McEwan.

Outlying territory in the district from Bellevue to Crows Nest, R. G. McIntyre, Coleman.

A class of instruction for local district appointees was conducted Monday and Tuesday, May 26-27, at the Cosmopolitan hotel, Blairmore. It is the duty of every citizen to co-operate with these enumerators in their work.

Soldiers Thank Jack Wood For Magazines

Recently The Journal carried a story relating to magazines being given to Mrs. Ferd Antrobus who in turn marked the name of the donor on the magazine covers and then forwarded the magazines to a depot in eastern Canada.

Two weeks ago a Mr. Joe Knowles, of Bellevue, received a letter of thanks from a soldier who had read a magazine with Mr. Knowles' name on the cover. Last week Mr. Jack Wood received a letter written by two boys in Nova Scotia. Their names are Pte. John Wadden and Pte. John E. Cameron. They belong to the Pictou Highland regiment and expressed their appreciation to Mr. Wood for his courtesy and thoughtfulness in contributing magazines to the soldiers. The two boys received the magazines while in a hospital but, one suffering from a sore ear and the other from a sore throat.

They enclosed their addresses and asked Mr. Wood to correspond with them also any friend of his who would care to enter into correspondence.

INFORMATION ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Unemployment insurance becomes an actuality in Canada from July first. For the workers who are subject to periods of unemployment through no fault of their own it will mean the difference between being on relief or charity and the self-respect of having provided for their own welfare through a plan of insurance savings.

The plan is one of co-operation between the employer, the employee, and the government. Each makes a contribution based on the weekly wages earned by the employee. To the amount contributed by the employer and the amount deducted from the employee's wages, the government adds one-fifth of the total, and pays for the cost of operation. These contributions are similar to insurance premiums, and accumulate against the day when the worker, either male or female, becomes unemployed. Then, in a very short time the worker begins to receive weekly cheques which will continue for limited period of unemployment.

This, briefly, is the unemployment insurance plan which becomes a law of Canada, just as it has been a law in Great Britain for more than thirty years. With the experience of the British Act as well as the examples of other countries to draw upon, the Unemployment Insurance Commission has created a plan which should operate with the least inconvenience to the employer and to the greatest possible benefit to the workers.

A unique and simple system of making contributions to the fund through the employer purchasing special stamps from the post office and affixing them each week in a book designed for the purpose, is the record of each worker's contributions, as well as the employer's. In this way every worker can find out exactly at any time where he or she stands in respect to unemployment insurance.

There are some classes of workers who are not eligible for unemployment insurance, and there are certain conditions which affect all workers. Both employers and employees should familiarize themselves with the terms of the plan which will be made available by the postmaster in the locality you live.

A part of the plan is the opening of employment offices throughout Canada where workers may seek jobs and employers can seek workers. These offices will be opened as rapidly as possible to facilitate the most effective utilization of Canada's labour force during the war and in preparation for the return of workers to peacetime employment after war work has ceased.

The cry for scrap metal resounds through the Dominion. We notice the scrap metal from the old Michel tippie remains untouched.

Royal Canadian Air Force

No. 4 Training Command
Facilities for overcoming educational barriers to many keen young Canadians, eager to enlist in the Royal Canadian Air Force for training as pilot, observer, or wireless operator (air gunner), are announced at headquarters of No. 4 Training Command, Regina, Sask.

The Canadian Legion Educational Services are prepared to provide courses of study for pre-enlistment education of the eager youth of the prairies by the organization of classes, preferably night classes, in the relatively larger centres of population.

Through no fault of their own, a considerable number of young men have not been able to complete their education. Their eagerness for service in the air is common knowledge and it is expected that the valuable work undertaken by the Canadian Legion Educational Services will lead the way to the attainment of the goal for which so many are striving.

Heretofore such educational service has been given through the medium of correspondence courses. The new method of personal instruction is expected to attract much wider interest and more rapid progress.

Much disappointment among young men has been observed in the past because they could qualify in all respects other than educational. For the information of those interested, the following qualification standards are announced:

1. To be enlisted, candidates must have attained the age of 18.
2. Have successfully completed the first year at High School.
3. Be physically fit for flying duties in the R.C.A.F. (all have to pass a medical examination prior to being accepted for the course).
4. Be suitable in other respects.

An early response to the worthy effort of the Canadian Legion is anticipated. Applicants should communicate as quickly as possible to the R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre located nearest to their place of residence. In No. 4 Training Command these are located at the following addresses:

Early Klondike Days

Hardy Pioneers Who Gave Vast Riches To The World

Early Klondike days in the Canadian Yukon are recalled by Canada's most northerly historic site, a bronze tablet at the entrance to the Administration Building in Dawson City, Yukon. Erected some years ago by the Department of Mines and Resources on the advice of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, this memorial tablet pays perpetual tribute to the memory of the hardy pioneers whose determination and courage gave vast riches to the world.

Braving extreme dangers and untold hardships, those indomitable prospectors and miners ventured through the Chilkat and Chilkoot Passes into the unexplored valley of the Yukon to pave the way for the discovery of the rich gold fields with which the names of Robert Henderson and George W. Carmack are inseparably associated. For many years gold had been prospected for in the Yukon, but none of the discoveries created any great excitement until the rich find was made on Bonanza Creek on August 17, 1896. Had this lucky strike not been made it is possible that the treasures of Bonanza, Eldorado, Hunker, Dominion, Gold River, and many others might still lie hidden away in the bedrock and gravel covered by the heavy forests that grew in the valleys.

After almost half a century the Yukon continues to be an important producer of gold, but the pan, rocker, and sluicing methods of the early Klondike miners have been replaced by huge hydro-electric power dredges. Although many of the hardy Yukon pioneers have passed on, each year their dwelling ranks parade to celebrate Discovery Day, when stirring tales of long ago are again retold.

Fifty Years Ago

Story In Old Paper Tells How Niagara Gorge Was Crossed

In the Hamilton, Ont., Spectator of April 30, 1891, fifty years ago, was republished an account, taken from the Buffalo Courier, of what is described as "Niagara's first bridge."

Those who nowadays venture to cross the whiplow on the aerial railway little realize that they are repeating an experience on a much more elaborate and safer scale, of pioneers of almost a century ago, who, according to the interesting record referred to, were in the habit of crossing the gorge in a small, basket-like contraption. In 1840 a charter was granted by the state of New York to the International Bridge Company to construct a bridge across the river, the Niagara Falls Suspension Bridge Company receiving a similar charter from the Canadian authorities. A joint board of directors was formed, which entered into a contract with Charles Ellet, junior, bridge builder of Philadelphia, to erect a railway bridge about two miles below the falls. In the year 1847 the work was started, and as a preliminary means of communication a cable was stretched across the river fastened to two high wooden towers, one on each bank.

On this cable was hung the basket, made of iron, suspended by two grooved wheels and hauled by means of a drum geared to a crankshaft. The method of slinging the cable over the gorge is of particular interest. A prize of ten dollars was offered by Theodore Graves Hulst, the engineer in charge of this part of the work, who also writes the description—to the boy who could fly a kite carrying a string of sufficient strength to haul a clothesline across the river. The ball brought "a regiment of kite-flyers into the field," and after many unsuccessful attempts a lad by the name of Homan Walsh accomplished the feat, and was duly rewarded. The cable was strung, and the workmen and their necessary tools, and others, began to pass back and forth.

"It is a curious fact that of the thousands of persons crossing the gorge in the little basket, three-fourths were ladies," it is stated. "It was intended to seat comfortably two persons, though four were sometimes crowded in. The first passage was made in the spring of 1848 by Engineer Ellet." Which proves that the ladies of the period were not lacking in courage, for it must have been something of an ordeal to make such a journey.

Famous Car Manufacturer

Lord Austin Dies At His Home In England

Lord Austin, 75, manufacturer of the Austin automobile, died recently at his home near Bromsgrove, England.

As Herbert Austin he went to Australia to serve his engineering apprenticeship after being educated at Brampton College and returned to England in 1890.

After managing the Wolseley Tool and Motor Car Co., Ltd., he began manufacturing his own cars in 1905. His plant, Longbridge Works, Northfield, Birmingham, became the home of one of Britain's most widely-used automobiles, both the large Austin and pint-sized "baby" Austin.

In 1936 he was created first Baron Austin of Longbridge. That year he gave $1,112,500 to the Cavendish Laboratory of Experimental Physics at Cambridge University, for which he received the thanks of the then Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin.

Lord Austin was in the House of Commons as a Conservative representing a Birmingham constituency from 1910 to 1921. He was known as high tariff man and supported Lord Beaverbrook's imperial economic policy plan.

No Plus Or Minus

Night Bombing Means Destruction On Both Sides Of Channel

The New York Sun says: Accounts of the German raid on London and of the British raid on Hamburg tell of tremendous destruction at a cost to the attacker, in each instance, of a number of planes and trained flyers. The cost of night bombing has not yet become prohibitive. As the British become better equipped with bombers the mutual destructiveness mounts. There is no plus and minus to this score; night bombing on a big scale means the destruction on both sides of the Channel of much that has been identified as modern civilization.

GAY STYLE BUTTONS DOWN SIDE

By Anne Adams

Hurray—it's cotton season again!

And pick of the new fashion crop is Pattern 4747—a light-hearted Anne Adams style. There's gay originality in the buttoning that starts at the charming neckline and crosses briskly over to the left side, where it goes clear down the bodice and skirt. A trim waistband clearly defines your slim waist and accentuates the swinging flare of the skirt; a hand-angle pocket adds extra style. Have short, straight sleeves or omit them entirely for active sports. One trimming version shows vivid ric-rac; another uses contrast for the pocket and waist-girdle and to form bands at the neck, the sleeves and around the skirt. Make this frock all its styles for a complete and varied cotton wardrobe!

Pattern 4747 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3½ yards 35 inch fabric and ¾ yard ric-rac.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

Production Increasing

Bombers and flying boats for Britain and the United States Army and Navy are rolling off the assembly lines at Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, San Diego, California, at a rate averaging nearly $3,000,000 worth a month. Company officials said first reports regarding the effectiveness of its four-motored bombers in raids on Germany have been "extremely encouraging."

BEGINNING OF WORLD MISSIONS

Golden text: And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation. Mark 16:15.

Lesson: Acts 12:25-13:12.

Devotional reading: Psalm 72:6-13.

Explanations and Comments

The First Foreign Missionary Work, Acts 13:4-12.—"being sent forth by the Spirit"—Barnabas and Paul set forth on their mission. They followed the Cretan River to Seleucia, the seaport of Antioch, and took ship there for the island of Cyprus.

"Historically this is the precise moment at which the foreign missionary enterprise actually began. The simple fact, when looked at down the perspective of the centuries, is seen to have changed the history of the world" (Basil Matthews). At Antioch, the nearest harbor of the island, they stayed a while and preached to the Jews in their synagogue. John Mark was their attendant. Being a traveling preacher, they were given at least one hearing in each Jewish synagogue visited. They traversed the length of the island, and at Paphos, on the west coast, they met the proconsul, Sergius Paulus. It is interesting that a Roman inscription has been found in which Sergius Paulus is expressly named as holding the office of proconsul.

With the proconsul was a sorcerer, a Jew named Bar-Jesus, of Elymas, as he was called in Greek. We know that magicians of all kinds were favorably received in Roman society, and it is not at all remarkable that one of them had gained an influence with the proconsul. Sergius Paulus desired to hear the Word of God and sent for Barnabas and Paul, but Elymas opposed them and endeavored to turn the proconsul from the faith. He knew that if the proconsul accepted the faith of Paul, himself would lose his power over him, and doubtless much material advantage as well.

But Saul, who is also called Paul (and from now on Luke uses only the Roman name of Paul, for Paul is committed to the task of evangelizing the Roman world), filled with the Holy Spirit, bitterly denounced the sorcerer. "You mass of trickery and rascality," that is the way Paul begins, and he follows it up with another shot—"You son of the Devil," and not content with that he goes on to add, "You enemy of everything that is right, will you never stop diverting the straight paths of the Lord?" (C. E. Jefferson). The sorcerer announced to the sorcerer that he should become blind and this at once came about. "Virtually Paul pronounced sentence: If you choose to be spiritually and mentally blind, then be blind physically. Learn what blindness really is" (R. C. Gillette). We may note in passing that the Korean deity the profession of witchcraft is reserved for the blind.

The blindness of Elymas helped to open the eyes of the proconsul. When he saw Elymas seeking someone to lead him by the hand, Sergius Paulus believed, being astonished at the teachings of the Lord.

An Accurate Guess

One Of John Buchan's Characters Made Interesting Prophecy

The St. Thomas-Times Journal says: In 1924 a celebrated author, well-known in Canada, published a book called "The Three Hostages," and this is what he made one of his characters say:

"The next war will be a dashed unpleasant affair. So far as I can see there will be very few soldiers killed, but an enormous number of civilians. The safest place will be the front. There will be such a rush to get into the army that we will have to have conscription to make people remain in civil life."

If he had written that with knowledge of present experiences he could scarcely have been more accurate.

The author was John Buchan.

CARBON MONOXIDE

Carbon Monoxide is the gas that kills you when you run your motor car in an enclosed space such as a garage with the doors closed. The public should be educated on all phases of the hazard. Persons likely to come in close contact with high concentrations of carbon monoxide such as policemen and firemen need especially to be informed of the hazard.

The gas does not appear in nature; it results almost entirely from incomplete oxidation or the burning of material containing carbon. It is present during electrical storms, when buildings burn up and after explosions and fires in mines. It is also produced in lime, brick and charcoal kilns; in the laboratory it is produced by heating formic acid and oxalic acid with sulphuric acid. It is found in smoke and in rooms which have been painted and sealed. It has even been reported formed from burning cigarettes.

Carbon monoxide is particularly dangerous because it has no smell. It is colourless and should not be confused with carbon dioxide gas, the one that is excreted from the lungs in breathing.

The asphyxiated person is comatose, the temperature usually above normal; the skin is pale, but the lips are nearly always scarlet red and there is a scarlet blush on the cheeks and sometimes over the whole body. The early symptoms are entirely due to the fact that the haemoglobin (the red colouring matter of the blood), has a much greater affinity for carbon monoxide than for oxygen. The remedy for the asphyxiation of carbon monoxide is artificial respiration done by the Schaefer method and kept up for at least one and a half hours. The patient should be kept warm and no exertion permitted.

Oil Exploration

Extension Of Production Activities In The West

An official of the mines and resources department said today that Dr. George Hume, one of the department's senior geologists, have been made available to the Dominion oil controller's office in connection with oil exploration work in western Canada.

"Dr. Hume is one of the best technical men in Canada in this line," the official said. "He is an expert on the oil production situation in Alberta."

"Extension of production activities is regarded as desirable for war purposes and we already have several parties of geologists working in the Turner Valley region."

CHAPTER IX.

Devona had no idea how long she had been sitting there, face pressed against the cool iron balustrade, cheeks fanned by the warm, fragrant breeze just stirring from the garden below, the dream in her heart matching the beauty of the star-spangled night. Then, as if he'd stopped right out of that dream, Dale had come striding across the empty patio below.

Devona recognized him instantly, even in the shadow. No one else walked with that same, long, even stride. Smiling, she felt the breath stop in her throat.

Dale stood for a moment beside the black, shimmering pool. Then slowly he turned back toward the house, hands thrust deep into his coat pockets. He stood watching the lighted windows below. If only he'd look up, she dreamed on, still not really believing she wouldn't wake up soon. Look up and speak to her.

As if he'd heard her thought, Dale did glance up, take a step nearer. Then he grinned, waved at her. "Hello, there, Juliet on your balcony," he called in a husky stage whisper. "You are Juliet, aren't you? Or am I seeing things?"

Laughing softly, she nodded. "And thou, dear Romeo. Who let you in?" "I scaled your wall, fair lady, just for a glimpse of thee."

"Then thou must beware my vengeful kinsmen," she said, not realizing how nearly she spoke the truth.

Dale nodded, glanced toward the lighted windows below. "It's much too swell an evening to stay inside. And perfect for a swim. Look, why don't you slide into a suit and come on down?"

Devona hesitated. It was pretty late. Still—why not? I'll be with you in a minute."

It was only a minute before she slipped out of her room, fingers still fumbling as she stuffed her soft hair under a bathing cap. At the head of the stairs she hesitated. Below, in the main hall, she could hear Vana bidding her guests good night. Better use the servants' stairway at the back. It would spare any painful encounter with Vana. And she couldn't bear any more of that. Not to-night, anyway. Not with Dale waiting.

Fleeing, light-footed, along the narrow hall behind the kitchen and servants' quarters, Devona came, unexpectedly, face to face with Wong. A very jaunty Wong in bright-striped sport coat and rakish Panama. Obviously startled to meet her, he hid surprise almost instantly behind a bobbing little bow, pulled off the Panama.

"Yes, miss. Was there anything for you, miss?"

"No, thank you Wong." Again that strange feeling of repulsion. Instinctively, Devona pulled her bathing cap closer and hurried past him.

The water, cool and invigorating, slapped against the tiled sides of the pool as they swam.

A little later they hoisted themselves to the pool's edge, sat dripping, gasping for breath, laughing about nothing in particular, except that laughing together was fun.

The dry desert air was like a warm shawl, and as they relaxed and sat smoking and talking, Devona caught herself crossing her fingers lest anything should break the spell.

"It's glorious out here," Dale said once, stretching his long body luxuriously on the soft grass, so that he lay looking up at the star-studded sky. "You'd never think anything could go wrong in a world that looked as perfect as this."

"Does it? Go wrong for you, I mean?" Devona asked, curled in the lawn swing so that she could watch his face in the moonlight and keep her own safely hidden by shadow.

"Sure. Often." He laughed a short, bitter little sound. "Plenty wrong."

"I don't know why. If I did, it might help." He scowled at the moon's bland face for a minute. "But just when I think things are all set for a magnificent showdown something goes haywire."

"A showdown?" puzzled, Devona echoed.

"Yes. A raid, I mean. I know these boys are putting the stuff through. And I get everything lined up for the night they are expecting a big shipment, and then—" he snipped his fingers—"it blows up. Somebody's out to every move I make and I'll be damned if I can catch up with him."

Dale ran strong fingers through his hair, curling damply now and making him look as he must have when he was a sturdy 10-year-old, Devona thought, smiling.

"It's been uncanny," he went on, savagely. "Like having some mind reader tell you what you're thinking right while you're thinking it. If I could just plug up this leak..."

Now his moment of seriousness exchanged for his usual good-humored teasing. "Look here, why do I always unload my grief on you when—" ever after, and all that stuff."

Devona recognized him instantly, even in the shadow. No one else walked with that same, long, even stride. Smiling, she felt the breath stop in her throat.

"Of course. Don't you?" He shrugged, half serious, half in fun. "Once upon a time I did. Then I grew up to be an attorney and found out people never do anything just for love."

"Oh, but they do!" Devona protested. "Love—"

"Makes the world go round," he interrupted. "Sure, I heard that once too. But I got over it. It's money, my sweet, that makes everything go. Money and more money. And the sooner you learn that in this cockeyed world—" he shrugged, and the gesture included the patio, the whole stucco hacienda, even the whole glorious night—"the better off you'll be. Everybody has his price, I've found."

"That's not so!" Flushed, she tried to defend her most cherished ideal. Dale laughed again. "You'll learn, little Miss Innocence. I'm warning you. Put your romantic notions in cold storage. They won't stand much daylight."

Little Miss Innocence. Devona realized what he really was telling her. She'd worn her heart in plain sight—and of course he'd seen it, felt sorry for her, and her "romantic notions. He knew she'd fallen head over heels at first sight, and gentleman that he was, he didn't want her to make a fool of herself.

Something hard and painful thrust itself into her throat, out of anything she might have thought to say to hide the awful hurt of his rebuff. So the silence hung, painfully, for a moment. Then Dale turned toward her again.

"S'matter? Did I hurt your feelings?"

"Of course not, silly. I—I was just trying to decide whether to take one more plunge before I go in," she fabricated quickly, faked a smile.

"Good idea. Come on," and pulled her up after him.

But as she pushed open her own door, the door across the hall swept open. Vana, a cool white goddess in a flowing negligee, stared at her with hostile gray eyes.

"Please, will you come in here a moment. I want to speak to you."

"Certainly." Trembling, and not entirely because of the clammy wet suit, Devona stepped past her mother into the elaborate boudoir, heard the click of the door's closing behind her, and felt, somehow, as if a trap had shut its jaws on her.

Canada's Naval Strength

Number Of Vessels Will Be Doubled By Next April

The Canadian Navy's strength in ships will be doubled by next April in comparison to the number now available and 8,000 more men will be added. The Navy in that time, Navy Minister Macdonald said in a recent address.

"Where our Canadian Navy now has 200 ships and a total strength of 18,000 officers and men, we shall have 400 ships and 26,000 men in naval service by next April," he said.

Mr. Macdonald praised the Canadian sailor, saying that there is not a port in the world where either a Canadian sailor or ship cannot be found. He said that Canada's speed in shipbuilding is satisfactory and added that there "never has been any question of a shortage of naval volunteers."

The minister coupled a declaration that this war is one "of machinery and not men" with the assertion that Canada will spend nearly as much in 1942 as was spent by the nation in the entire four years of the First Great War.

Some people, said Mr. Macdonald, have asked why Canada does not turn out more ships and men. The Navy Minister said it takes time to train men, and years to train a man fully for command of one of Canada's larger vessels.

Saving Tea In Britain

Chemists Find That You Can Use Tea Leaves Over Again

You may soon be able to empty your teapot, fill it up again with hot water and a little of something else—and get a second brew out of it better than the first.

The British War Office wanted to know what to do with 16 tons of spent tea leaves left behind every day in the Army camps.

Scientists said they would take the tea for experiments, and now they have told the War Office that if the Army keeps its tea leaves instead of throwing them away after use, adds a little chemical and uses again with hot water they will have their tea again as good as new.

The secret may be made available to the public if the objections of the customs and excise department can be overcome.

The department has told the war office that ancient acts of parliament forbid the dyeing or fabrication of any tea leaves which have been used.

Scientists say the chemical that will be added to the spent tea leaves is easy to make and cheap. By using it, millions of pounds of money and valuable shipping space will be saved.

Jews will not be allowed to return to their homes in occupied France along with other refugees now in the unoccupied zone.

Arrangement Is Reciprocal

Oddity Of War In Connection With Right To Use Inventions

This interesting story by Clifford Webb appeared in the London Daily Herald:

We are still sending money to Germany for the privilege of making use of German inventions. Some of these inventions are so closely allied to our war effort that they are undoubtedly directly responsible for the deaths of thousands of Nazis. And the same thing is happening in the reverse direction—Germans are paying Britons for the right to use inventions through which Britons are being killed and maimed.

This is how this oddity of the war works:

Certain firms in this country acquired, before the war patent rights from Germany, enabling them, on payment of a fixed annual sum, to manufacture articles invented by Germany. Each year their license to manufacture these goods was renewable on payment of the agreed fee. These annual fees are still being paid—through neutral countries—to inventors in Germany.

An official at the patent office, in London, told me that there is a "complete answer." "The arrangement," he said, "is reciprocal. The Germans are using some of our patents and are remitting the renewal fees to us in the same way that we are remitting fees to them. There is no considerable sum of money involved."

"The pre-war system of renewal payments is kept going because it not only protects holders of patents in this country, but also protects manufacturers who have laid out expensive patents to manufacture patented articles. If patents were allowed to expire anybody could take up manufacture of the articles concerned. All these people would have third-party rights in any patent arrangements after the war, and the position then would be chaotic. Both here and in Germany, it is felt that the present system is justifiable."

So there you have it; the queerest story of the war. Some brainy German who hates us like poison may still be receiving from us, each year, some of our precious foreign exchange. This solely because, years ago, he invented some gadget which is now being used to kill as many Germans as possible.

ELEMENTS OF HAPPINESS

Happiness is the legitimate fruitage of love and sacrifice.—Arthur S. Hardy.

Seek happiness for its own sake, and you will not find it; seek for duty, and happiness will follow as the shadow comes with the sunshine.—Tryon Edwards.

If the principles of contentment are not within us, the height of station and worldly grandeur will as soon add a cubit to a man's stature as to his happiness.—Sterne.

Pure humanity, friendship, home, the interchange of love, bring to earth a forest of heaven. They unite terrestrial and celestial joys, and crown them with blessings infinite. Mary Baker Eddy.

There is little pleasure in the world that is sincere and true beside that of doing our duty and doing good. No other is comparable to this.—Tillotson.

An act of goodness is of itself an act of happiness. No reward coming after the event can compare with the sweet reward that went with it.—Maurice Maeterlinck.

French Youth Swam Through Mine Field To Join De Gaulle

After motorizing for 22 hours to a French port, an 18-year-old Frenchman swam two miles through waters sown with magnetic mines to reach a ship which brought him to England. The ship was without provisions, and for three days he had no food. He is now serving under General de Gaulle.

B. T. Townroe, secretary-general of the United Associations of Great Britain and France, told this story to a meeting at Windsor, Ont., recently.

HOME SERVICE

PASS THE TIME HAPPILY SINGING WESTERN SONGS

Let Everyone Pick a Favorite

Looking around for something to do these warm Summer evenings? What could be more fun than a songfest of old Western ditties? A few bars of "Git Along Little Dogies"—and the whole gang's singing: "Whoopee! y! y! y! Git along, little dogies; It's your misfortune and none of my own. Whoopee! y! y! y! Git along, little dogies. You know that Wyoming will be your new home!"

Everyone has fun choosing a favorite from the songbook. "Heart in the Heart of Texas" is popular. The chorus goes: "There's a Heart in the Heart of Texas. Beating true blue just for me. Then launch into 'The Land of the Beautiful West'—a real hit. 'I'll guard you, I'll tend you, I'll love you the best, And you'll say there's no land like the beautiful West.'"

All the words, music and piano accompaniments for these and other lively cowboy songs are given in our songbook. Has 19 favorites, old and new—including "The Dying Cowboy," "Red River Valley," "Missouri Joe." Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "Popular Cowboy Songs" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg News, paper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

Theatre Television

Invited Guests Saw First Public Show In New York

The first public showing of large-scale theatre television, utilizing apparatus developed recently in the R.C.A. Manufacturing Company's laboratories, was staged at the New Yorker Theatre, New York, before more than 1,000 invited guests.

On a white screen, 15 by 20 feet, the guests watched the Billy Rose equestrian team. Ken Overlin championship fight at Madison Square Garden with almost as much clarity as if they were at the ring itself.

A round-table discussion by sports executives, theatre managers and engineers also was flashed on the screen. The speakers discussed the possibility that such a system in the near future, if extended to link by wire many theatres instead of one, might make it possible for a million sports fans instead of a few thousand to witness a major athletic contest.

Symbol Of An Empire

But London's Big Ben Speaks Language Of All Free People

Big Ben is a product of Whitechapel. It has become the symbol of an empire whose shores are washed by the seven seas. But to-day it speaks the language of all peoples unfettered and free, uniting millions who now hear it by radio all over the world in tradition in sentiment and in ideals.

Clustering round Big Ben are four smaller bells. These bells have a message of assurance, for the chiming are set to the following tunes: All through this hour, Lord, be my Guide. And by Thy Power, no foot shall slide.
